

Online Resources for the Prevention and Intervention of Bullying Behavior

South Carolina Educational Television - ITV - A cooperative venture with the South Carolina Department of Education's Office of Technology and ETV, ITV is responsible for programming the instructional television resources on eight of ETV's digital satellite channels to schools. Program Information: Guide for SC2--South Carolina-Self Control
<http://www.itv.scetv.org/>

Stop Bullying Now - Educators can be powerful agents of change in young people's lives. Bullying can take many forms, such as: hitting or punching, teasing or name-calling, intimidation through gestures, social exclusion, and sending insulting messages or pictures by mobile phone or using the Internet (also known as cyber bullying).
<http://stopbullyingnow.hrsa.gov/index.asp?area=main>

Bully Safe Schools is committed to reducing bullying in schools with evidence-based training programs, state-of-the-art online surveys and products to help create bully-safe schools.
<http://www.bullysafeschools.com/website/index.asp>

Back Off Bully - Stuart W. Twemlow, MD , Frank C. Sacco, PH.D., and Stephen Twemlow have been developing anti-violence programs in schools for many years. Drs. Twemlow & Sacco have been consultants to the FBI on school shootings and specialize in "systemic" interventions that impact on the school's learning climate. This approach relies heavily on traditional martial arts philosophy, applied psychoanalysis, and large group psychology.
<http://www.backoffbully.com/>

The National School Safety Center serves as an advocate for safe, secure and peaceful schools worldwide and as a catalyst for the prevention of school crime and violence. NSSC provides school communities and their school safety partners with quality information, resources, consultation, and training services. The National School Safety Center identifies and promotes strategies, promising practices and programs that support safe schools for all students as part of the total academic mission.
<http://www.schoolsafety.us/Bullying-p-26.html>

The Center for the Study and Prevention of Violence (CSPV), a research program of the Institute of Behavioral Science (IBS) at the University of Colorado at Boulder, was founded in 1992 to provide informed assistance to groups committed to understanding and preventing violence, particularly adolescent violence. Since that time, our mission has expanded to encompass violence across the life course.

Bullying Prevention (Bullying Prevention Program). [Now known as the Olweus Bullying Prevention Program]. Reduces victim and bullying problems among grade school and secondary school children. It aims to change the social climate of the school by increasing awareness of and appropriate responses to bullying, active involvement on the part of teachers and parents, and developing and enforcing rules against bullying behavior. It also provides support and protection for the victims of bullying.
<http://www.colorado.edu/cspv/safeschools/bullying/overview.html>

Resources are for information purposes only. These listings are selected from various Web sites and should not be construed to be endorsed by the South Carolina Department of Education.